I request that the following item pertaining to the Mississauga Judicial Inquiry/Ethical Infrastructure be included in the November 9, 2011 Council minutes. It provides context to Wednesday's General Committee meeting and Council's attempts to sweep the report's findings under the rug.

I would appreciate being notified of any errors in the video transcript. Thanks.

November 3rd, 2011

No introduction today. Just video of Mississauga Councillor Nando Iannicca speaking for the mere 22 percent of Mississauga residents who care about integrity, accountability and optics.

Yes, 22 percent --the 22 percent who did not give Mayor Hazel McCallion a 78 percent approval rating in a poll released October 24, 2011 of citizens in the country's 15 biggest cities.

And in a municipality where "tell it like it is" means to delete the truth and ratchet up the Positive Positive Positive, it was wonderful to witness Iannicca take one swift, judicious kick at the "tell it like it is" Katie.

So. As is our custom, the video followed by the transcript. This entire blog will be sent to Mississauga Council as correspondence to be included in the November 9, 2011 Council minutes.

How do you ensure that Youth thrive?

[video shows me writing "Ethical Infrastructure before Bricks & Mortar!" on pink Post-It.]

Okay and it says, "Ethical Infrastructure before Bricks and Mortar!"

And let's put here, "(and buses)"

Now again, I have not --even though I've gone to all of these meetings, every single last symposium, I have never before participated. So.

[video shows me sticking the pink Post-It "Ethical Infrastructure before Bricks & Mortar!" onto the "ensuring youth, older adults & and new immigrants thrive" board]

And this is how we're going to ensure that Youth thrive.

Councillor Iannicca.

Councillor Nando Iannicca, Mississauga General Committee, November 2, 2011

Thank you, madam chair. I'll be brief.

I appreciate some of the comments, but a majority of them make me feel like I'm going through that episode of the Twilight Zone again.

MISSISSAUGAWATCH whispering into camera, Mississauga General Committee, November 2, 2011

Yee-up.

Councillor Nando Iannicca, Mississauga General Committee, November 2, 2011

I must live in a parallel universe and some of my constituents might as well.

So just to reiterate and to be very very clear. Contrary to what you're being told here by some members of Council, here's what the Justice said in quotations:

"There was no other practical way to explore what transpired."

Period. Full Stop.

That's what he actually said.

[DIP TO BLACK]

Commissioner Douglas J. Cunningham, regarding findings of Mississauga Judicial Inquiry. Mississauga Council Chambers, October 3, 2011

I obviously have no view about whether City Council should have called this inquiry. What I do say in the Report is that if the issues identified by City Council were to be explored, there was no other practical way to explore them. It is simply not practical under the existing MCIA procedure for an ordinary citizen to launch a Court application claiming conflict of interest on the part of an elected official. The downside risk of tens of thousands of dollars in legal costs should the application be found to be unwarranted, acts, in my view, as far too great a deterrent.

Councillor Nando Iannicca, Mississauga General Committee, November 2, 2011

I-4(c)

I'm satisfied with that. Little bit of revisionism going on here.

As to the value of the land, Councillor Starr, I'm happy to speak to the point to that. Two individuals, one of whom is a developer in the downtown core said that you badly overpaid for the land. I said listen, we got appraisals we sent it back.

Unlike you, perhaps, I wasn't willing to bury it.

I fulfilled my duties and [inaudible] going to bring it up again. But this is a person that buys land in the downtown core and said at the time you overpaid.

I'm not going to sweep it under the rug. I'm happy to deal with it.

The third point that I would make is, and this is all seemed to have been glossed over [inaudible].

Are any of you concerned about the evidence that was given?

[DIP TO BLACK]

Commissioner Douglas J. Cunningham, regarding findings of Mississauga Judicial Inquiry. Mississauga Council Chambers, October 3, 2011

The Mayor's actions amounted to both a real and apparent conflict of interest. On any view of the evidence, Peter McCallion stood to gain substantially on the successful completion of the hotel and condominium project. He had, on his own evidence, a potential upside of more than $10 million. And as an investor he stood to gain much more than that. By her own admission, the Mayor knew at the very least that he was the real estate agent for the purchaser. I have found that the Mayor knew that a successful WCD project would have earned her son more money than he would otherwise have earned over the course of many years --probably in his lifetime. I have found that the Mayor must have known that her son had a financial role much greater than acting simply as the purchaser's agent.

[DIP TO BLACK]

Councillor Nando Iannicca, Mississauga General Committee, November 2, 2011

Do any of you read a newspaper?

MISSISSAUGAWATCH whispering into camera, Mississauga General Committee, November 2, 2011

That's right.

Councillor Nando Iannicca, Mississauga General Committee, November 2, 2011

The City of Mississauga was dragged through the mud over this.

I'll give you another quote. If you missed this.

"Ethical Infrastructure".

MISSISSAUGAWATCH whispering into camera, Mississauga General Committee, November 2, 2011

Right.

Councillor Nando Iannicca, Mississauga General Committee, November 2, 2011

To use the words that the Justice used.

We're in need of the renewal of the Ethical Infrastructure of this City. That's appalling!

Do you know what happened to me a week ago?

I had the privilege of being in St. Martin's School where my son got blessed with his 86 percent average. Was getting an award for being on the Dean's List. And I was very proud of my son.

As I'm leaving, some gentleman there says, "Nando, [inaudible] why would you waste time, not going to university, right? He's going to get a real estate degree. He's going to work in real estate."

My God, I'm glad I was in a crowded room as I don't know what I would have done. I think you'll be proud of me, I left. That's the nonsense that I have to put up with because of what transpired and all of you seem oblivious to.

Well, I'm not.

I could belabour it. I've fulfilled my duty to my constituents. I am not a co-conspirator in all of this.

MISSISSAUGAWATCH Mississauga General Committee, November 2, 2011

[applauds]

Councillor Nando Iannicca, Mississauga General Committee, November 2, 2011

And as I said at the time and I will say it one last time.

If you did not vote for the Inquiry. If you do not agree with its findings. And if you are not appalled at what happened, you are not fit for public service.

Acting Chair, McCallion-backed loyalist Councillor Katie Mahoney, Mississauga General Committee, November 2, 2011

Councillor Iannicca, I am going to cut this debate now!

MISSISSAUGAWATCH whispering into camera, Mississauga General Committee, November 2, 2011

Good for you.

Councillor Nando Iannicca, Mississauga General Committee, November 2, 2011

I said it at the time. I stand by it.

MISSISSAUGAWATCH whispering into camera, Mississauga General Committee, November 2, 2011

[applauds] Good for you.

Acting Chair, Councillor Katie Mahoney, Mississauga General Committee, November 2, 2011

Sir, sir, I am going to cut this debate now! Councillor Mullin, do you have something?

Councillor Nando Iannicca, Mississauga General Committee, November 2, 2011

My God.

Attention: Mr. Edward Sajecki
Commissioner of Planning and Building

Dear Mr. Sajecki,

Re: Proposed Housekeeping Amendments (#5) to Zoning By-Law No. 0225-2007
Proposed Parking Rate for Self Storage Facilities
City of Mississauga

As you know, we are the planning consultants representing Budget Development Partners, who are developers with 28 years of experience establishing self-storage facilities in Canada and the United States.

We wrote to you yesterday, acknowledging the City's initiative to develop a parking rate for self-storage facilities within the City in this Housekeeping Amendment. We commend this initiative and in this regard, we provided the City with some rationale related to an appropriate parking rate for self-storage facilities within the City.

We have recently become aware that the City will be undertaking a City-wide parking assessment study for many different land uses within the City, commencing in 2013. After some consideration, we feel it is more appropriate that a more detailed and comprehensive study be undertaken in connection with that City-wide parking assessment study to justify a (further) reduced parking rate for self-storage facilities. Such a study would address the unique nature of the self-storage facility land use and the extremely low parking demand this type of use requires.

Accordingly, we request that our letter dated October 31, 2011 related to the City's current Housekeeping Amendment (#5) to Zoning By-Law No. 0225-2007 requesting a further reduction in the parking rate for self-storage facilities be withdrawn and that, instead, we be notified when the City's 2013 parking assessment study is commenced, so that we may participate.

In the interim, until the 2013 parking assessment study is commenced and the City has the opportunity to undertake a more fulsome review to more fully understand the nature of a self-storage facility and the low parking rate it requires, we understand the City will move forward to implement the proposed rate of 0.6 spaces /100 sq.m. for this use through this Housekeeping Amendment.

Thank you for withdrawing our letter of October 31st, 2011.

Yours very truly,

COUNCIL AGENDA
NOV 09 2011

November 3, 2011

Ms Carmela Radice
City Clerk
Mississauga City Council
300 City Centre Drive
Mississauga, ON, L5B 3C1

Dear Ms Radice :

As President of the Board of Directors of the Arab Community Centre of Toronto (ACCT), I am writing on behalf of the Board members in support of the request made by Mr. Harry Malawi, President of CDC, that the name of its late ACCT Executive Director, Laila Bondugjie, be commemorated by the City of Mississauga.

For over 30 years Laila Bondugjie has tirelessly served members of her community, as well as new immigrants to Canada from all walks of life. She earned the respect and love of her community, as well as the high regard and esteem of the broader social service community. She honed her talents within that sector by holding, since the mid-eighties, the position of Executive Director of the Arab Community Centre of Toronto, a social service agency serving members of the Arab community as well as members of the public at large.

Since her arrival in Canada in 1970, until her death on October 7, 2011, Laila made Mississauga her home. She loved the city, and spoke proudly of its development. She tried to lure me -- a Torontonionian -- to live there, especially when the city's beautiful Arts Centre was built and inaugurated. For Laila was, to coin a word, a “Mississauga-ite” through and through. She lived the city’s dynamic evolution and took immense pride in it. In more than one way, the city mirrored her personal growth. She was a young bride when she arrived in Canada and made Mississauga her home, and she evolved into a person of great compassion and profound understanding of the workings of the city of Mississauga. Her thorough understanding of the dynamics of Canadian life made her the successful Director of the ACCT that she was. She was a bridge between newcomers and their new country; she was a pro-active advocate on behalf of individuals with special needs, and their link with the community at large. Hospitals, schools, prisons, women’s shelters, police precincts, Laila’s touch was everywhere to be felt. The Arab Community has indeed lost a unique and irreplaceable champion.

I-6(a)

The Arab Community Centre of Toronto

These are but a few of her great contributions, which prompts the Arab Community Centre of Toronto to fully support the Deputation of Mr. Harry Malawi, President of CDC, requesting that Laila Bondugjie’s name be commemorated publicly in the City of Mississauga – the city that she loved so much.

Yours sincerely,

Aida Graff, Ph.D.
President, ACCT
